1.0. INTRODUCTION

This handbook is a detailed guide for all employees of Medbury Medical Services Limited and is intended to assist employees regarding the policies governing their expectations, behavior, and conduct. The policies contained in the handbook define the minimum guidelines for employees of Medbury Medical Services Ltd.

The arrangement of the handbook is such that all the sections cover all categories of employees in the company, thus providing a common approach to the understanding and interpretation of policies. To assist with the interpretation of the policies, most of the sections of the handbook begin with a principle statement and the detailed policy statement which explains the objectives of each main policy.

The handbook is an internal confidential document, intended to promote a common understanding of Medbury Medical Services Limited's key human capital policies and terms and conditions of employment. This handbook is no form of a contract of employment nor is it intended to create a contractual obligation of any kind. A copy of this handbook is available to every employee for necessary guidance throughout their employment period.

Employees are encouraged to familiarise themselves with the contents of the handbook and seek clarification as appropriate. Note that the contents of this handbook do not form part of the Contract of Service signed by an employee, and the company reserves the right to change or withdraw any of them as it deems fit.

Any reference in this handbook to the masculine gender shall include the feminine gender and vice versa. The terms and conditions stated in this Handbook are not exhaustive. Please contact the Human Resources Management Department for any additional information or clarification you may need.

This handbook is and always remains the property of Medbury Medical Services Limited. Upon your disengagement from Medbury Medical Services Limited, for any reason whatsoever, any copy of the Staff Handbook in your possession shall be returned to the Human Resources Department.

Please note all employees will be required to complete an acknowledgment form confirming you have read and fully understood the Staff Handbook.

This item is the property of Medbury Medical Services for sole use by MMS in Nigeria to carry out its operation. It shall not be transferred to third parties without the written permission of management.

All new employees are required to serve a mandatory probation period of 6 month. The expected level of performance during this period shall be communicated to the employee in writing at the onset of the probation period.

The prescribed conditions for confirmation of employment are:

- Satisfactory (above average) performance of the new employee during the probation period.
 - Receipt of three satisfactory letters of recommendation, which will include:
 - One character (personal) reference
 - One educational reference (for new graduates)
 - Previous employer reference (experienced hires)
- Satisfactory health clearance from a clinic/hospital or laboratory appointed by the company.

During the probation period, the performance of the new employee will be formally appraised, and the evaluation will be discussed, documented and approved by the employee's Line Manager, with a copy to Human Resources Manager.

During the period of probation, either party may terminate employment subject to a formal notice in writing as contained in the offer of employment letter.

Probation period may be extended by one to three months, subject to the MD's approval if the new employee's performance is unsatisfactory during the initial period of probation. Failure to meet the prescribed condition for confirmation of employment after such an extension shall result in termination of employment with the company.

client representatives. A friendly work environment is encouraged, where rudeness, insubordination, condescension and disrespect are not tolerated.

At Medbury Medical Services Ltd, we must appreciate that each member of our organisation is important and adds value to our being. Respect cuts across all layers in our organisation – respect for organisational hierarchy, supervisors, subordinates, peers, offices and individuals. We all crave respect; we all deserve respect irrespective of status; it shows recognition and esteem for who we are as individuals.

In instances where an employee feels he/she has been treated in an untoward manner, he/she should first engage the person deemed to have caused offence, to allow the person a chance for retribution. Where the staff is not satisfied with the retributive action, he/she may refer the incidence to the Head, Human Resources. Where the offender is the Human Resources Manager or any other direct report of the MD, the issue should be reported to the MD. Where the offender is the MD, the issue should be reported to the Board Chairman.

Medbury Medical Services Limited places great value on professional conduct as it enhances a positive work environment. Unprofessional conduct shall attract disciplinary action, persistent display of unprofessionalism by any personnel will culminate into the termination of employment

5.0. HARASSMENT, DISCRIMINATION AND BULLYING AT WORK

Principle

Medbury Medical Services Limited is committed to keeping the work environment free of harassment, discrimination, intimidation and bullying.

Policy Statement

Medbury Medical Services Limited endeavours to provide a work environment that is supportive of productivity and the personal dignity and self-esteem of all employees. Be it sexual, ethnic or of any other form, harassment, discrimination and bullying in the workplace by any person is Workplace harassment is defined as “any unwelcome or unwanted conduct that denigrates or shows hostility or an aversion toward another person on the basis of any characteristic protected by law, which includes an individual's race, colour, gender, ethnic or national origin, age, religion, disability, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or other personal characteristic protected by law.

Workplace Discrimination is the “unequal or unfair treatment in professional opportunities, education, benefits, evaluation, and employment (such as hiring, termination, promotion, compensation) as well as retaliation and various types of harassment. Discriminatory practices can be explicit or implicit, intentional, or unconscious” – The American Geophysical Union (2016)

Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety defines “Bullying as an act seen or verbal comments that could psychologically or 'mentally' hurt or isolate a person in the workplace”.

Conduct is unwelcome if the employee did not solicit, instigate or provoke it, and the employee regarded the conduct as undesirable or offensive.

In instances where an employee feels he has been or is being harassed, intimidated or bullied, he should report such incident immediately to the Human Resources Department.

Medbury Medical Services Limited will not tolerate workplace harassment, and if proven, such behaviour shall attract appropriate sanction including dismissal and subjection of such reported person to appropriate authorities.

5.0. USE OF ALCOHOL, DRUGS OR OTHER BEHAVIOUR ALTERING SUBSTANCES

Principle

The use of alcohol (except during corporate events, where they are to be consumed moderately) and drugs and other behaviour altering substances on the company's premises while on official duty or during the official working hours is unacceptable.

Policy Statement

Employees shall not present themselves for work under the influence of alcohol and drugs and other behaviour altering substances. The consumption or use of alcohol and drugs and other behaviour altering substances on premises is unacceptable.

While it is expected that during social functions at work, employees may consume some alcohol, such should be limited to amounts that do not result in alteration of behaviour and loss of reasonable conduct. While management will better recommend non-consumption of alcohol, management expects that any person who desires to consume alcohol during a corporate event knows his threshold for alcohol consumption and will apply measures of self-control to evade influence of intoxication.

Violation of this policy, if proven, can lead to disciplinary action, up to and including outright termination of employment.

An employee taking prescribed drugs that might affect his/her performance should discuss the matter with his/her supervisor and notify the Human Resources Management Department in writing, with a supporting medical statement. _____

7.0. VACATION, HOLIDAYS AND OTHER ALLOWED TIME-OFF

7.1. GENERAL VACATION

Principle

Medbury provides paid vacation to employees. Employees are required to utilise all their leave in a calendar year.

Policy Statement

Upon confirmation of employment, employees will be entitled to annual vacation depending on their grade band as follows:

- MD: 25 working days
- FTE: 20 working days
- Contract: 10 working days

Annual vacation may be taken subject to the requirements of the job and subject to prior notification to Human Resources during the financial year in which it falls. Management may, if the exigencies of service so dictate, recall an employee from leave. Conditions for leave

Upon approval of leave, employees shall be given an approval-in-principle of their leave in writing by the Human Resource Department. The final approval and processing of leave allowances shall be subject to meeting the following conditions:

a) Hand Over Notes

Detailed handover notes must be prepared and submitted to the line manager and relief officer, minimum of 72 hours to the leave commencement. Forty-eight hours to leave commencement, the line manager and relief officer will meet with the staff going on leave to review the handover notes, update as appropriate and sign off by all 3. Any projects being handled outside of the regular course of duties should be included in the handover notes, and other staff involved in the project should be copied in the notes. It should be noted that assignments that are due or past their due dates must be completed before staff can commence leave.

A copy of the signed handover notes will be submitted to the Human Resource & Admin Manager, who will then give a formal leave approval.

a) Leave Commencement Reminder to Supervisor

Leave applicant must send a reminder notice, minimum of 3 working days to his/her leave commencement date, to the supervisor and Line Executive, to enable them to adjust and close out any pending assignments with you. The Line Manager is required to acknowledge this notice in writing, with a copy transmitted to the HR department for records.

b) Due Assignments

All projects/tasks/deliverables, that are due before leave commencement date are to be completed BEFORE leave commencement.

Upon receipt of the above, The Human Resource Manager will issue a clearance notice to proceed on leave and will process accordingly leave allowance, if applicable.

Please note that failure to meet the requirements stated above will result in leave being cancelled or recalled.

Unutilised leave shall not be carried over from one year to the next. Accrued but unutilised leave in a financial year shall be paid to exiting staff based on gross salary. Say, someone resigns in August 2020, the leave that has been accumulated but not utilised within the calendar year shall be encashed and paid as part of terminal entitlements.

Payment instead of vacation shall not be given, nor can leave days be carried forward to the following year. In rare cases of business conditions preventing an employee from taking full

7.0. STUDY & EXAMINATION LEAVE

Principle

Medbury Medical Services Limited shall encourage the development of personnel in respect of further studies/education in areas that would be of mutual benefit to the employee and the company.

Policy Statement

On application and at management's discretion, employees who have spent a minimum of 3 years with the company may be granted study leave without pay for a period to study a relevant discipline in a recognised academic institution.

The maximum period of study leave shall be the duration of the course, not exceeding 18 months.

Study leave period shall be included as part of service with the company on return to employment, provided such employees remain in the service of the company for at least two years after the study leave period.

At the end of the period of study leave, re-absorption shall be at leave grade level.

Period of study leave shall not be used for other employment on a full-time basis – only part-time work with an organisation that cannot be considered a direct competitor to the company shall be allowed.

In the event that an employee does not return on completion of such leave or indicates an intention not to return to employment with the company, it shall be deemed that employment with the company had been terminated on the date of the commencement of the study leave. Any outstanding entitlement as at the date of commencement of the study leave shall be paid as terminal employment benefits.

Employees going on study leave will be required to liquidate all indebtedness before commencement, and no major benefit will be paid to such employee during the study leave period.

a) Examination Leave

Examination leave is granted for employees sitting for final study or professional examinations. This leave is for travel time, prior study and is available to confirmed members of staff undertaking recognised courses of study who have spent a minimum of 12 months in the company.

Up to 5 days examination leave shall be granted to a staff per annum. The actual days to be taken shall be on a case-by-case basis, which will be recommended by the Line Executive and the Human Resource Manager, and approved by the MD.

These days shall be deductible from their annual leave entitlement unless such study is company recommended and sponsored as part of employee training and development plan.

b) Part-Time Study

Confirmed staff who have spent a minimum of 24 months, may elect to engage in relevant part-time studies while on the job.

The following process shall be adopted:

- 1) The employee shall notify the Human Resources Management Department, through the
 - 2) line supervisor of the study programme.

Policy Statement

Medbury Medical Services Limited's staff may be redeployed to a new job at any time based on vacancy or the need to fully engage employees.

A job redeployment does not indicate a promotion, thus when an employee is deployed to a new position, his or her current salary remains as before.

If such redeployment is outside the state the employee is resident or primarily employed, the company will pay a relocation allowance based on the level of the employee, as stipulated by Management in the relocation policy.

a) Merit

Medbury Medical Services Limited is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate in deployment, appointment or promotion decisions. All employee deployment decisions shall be based on objective assessment of qualifications, including skills, performance, contribution to the corporate performance, knowledge, abilities, experience, exhibited potentials and educational backgrounds, match with the essential requirements of the position and are awarded to the best qualified candidate, irrespective of sex, nationality, religion or non-disqualifying disability.

b) Staff Relocation

a) Temporary Relocation

Temporary relocation may apply for short redeployments which are required for a minimum of one month and a maximum of three months. This could arise in instances where staff are needed for projects, relief assignments and other short-term secondments.

The following relocation support shall be provided by the company during the short-term redeployment:

- Company-provided accommodation
- Transportation to and fro accommodation and work
One home-based return ticket monthly. Class of travel will be in line with Travel policy.
If a staff chooses not to utilise his/her home ticket, s/he will be entitled to 100% the ticket cost.

Only one term of temporary relocation may be permitted at the same location in any given year. However, in extenuating circumstances where there are clear business reasons to justify an extension, an employee may be deployed under the terms of temporary relocation for a maximum of six months – i.e. two terms. b) Permanent Relocation

Any redeployment exceeding three months shall be deemed a long stay or permanent relocation.

The following¹⁾ shall apply as support for permanent relocation:

A transition period of a maximum of 1 month, where the following will be provided:

- Company-provided accommodation
- 2) Transportation to and fro accommodation and work

Annual training plans are developed to align with Medbury Medical Services Limited strategy and designed to support specific performance objectives for that year. Annual individual training plans will be developed for each employee based on the company's training curriculum as well as identified individual needs.

Training needs will be identified based on defined organisational competencies as well as specific needs of the individuals and departments within the organisation. Critical input into the training need identification process will be provided by performance appraisal. Identification of training needs will be the responsibility of line management whose input will be required for the development of individual training plans. Line Managers may also recommend courses for their staff to the Human Resources Department for consideration; the MD shall approve these except for all international training which shall be approved by the Board Chairman.

The Human Resources Department will advise staff in writing of training they are required to attend. Staff who have been externally trained will be required within one week of the training, to conduct an internal knowledge sharing session and submit training materials to the Human Resources Department for storage.

Training effectiveness will be monitored based on actual improvement in the level of proficiency in defined competencies of staff. Metrics on training effectiveness will be compiled by the Human Resources Management Department for administration on a regular basis.

10.0. GRIEVANCE AND DISCIPLINARY POLICIES

10.1. GRIEVANCE PROCEDURE

Principle

Medbury Medical Services Limited provides avenues for addressing employee problems/issues and concerns.

Policy Statement

Medbury Medical Services Limited recognises that there is no real substitute for a mutually respectful line manager/employee relationship for the solution of individual work-related problems. Nevertheless, if this relationship fails to resolve an issue, there is a formal process whereby the problem can be aired and resolved quickly at an appropriate level of management as follows:

a) Step 1

An aggrieved employee shall discuss the problem with his/her line supervisor explaining the wish to use the formal procedure. Line Supervisor may be able to resolve employee concerns at this stage. If the issue is with the Line Supervisor, this step may be skipped.

b) Step 2

If the problem is not resolved by discussion under step 1, the employee may write to his/her Operating Unit head and the Human Resources Management Department requesting a meeting which will be granted within two working days of the request.

This item is the property of Medbury Medical Services for sole use by MMS in Nigeria to carry out its operation. It shall not be transferred to third parties without the written permission of management.

The problem will be investigated, a recommendation made and communicated to the employee within two working days from the meeting date.

a) Step 3

If the employee is not satisfied with the decision and recommendations reached in Step 2, he/she may write to the MD, with a copy to the Head, Human Resources. The Head, Human Resources and MD will consider all the available information and may either make a decision without further meetings or arrange a further meeting with the aggrieved employee. The decision of step 3 shall be final and binding.

If the issue is with the MD, the matter shall be referred to the Board

All grievance procedures for Executive Committee Members shall be referred directly to the MD, for resolution. This could be at the Executive's or HR's instance.

The time limit in steps 1 to 3 may be extended by management for a valid reason(s) which shall be communicated to all parties.

The Human Resources Department shall document all requests and recommendations in the grievance resolution process.

10.2. DISCIPLINARY PROCEDURE

Principle

Medbury Medical Services Limited has a disciplinary procedure it follows in cases of employee misconduct.

Policy Statement

Disciplinary action will be taken if an employee:

- Demonstrates unsatisfactory conduct that is inconsistent with his/her responsibilities or position and is therefore disruptive to the smooth working of the department or organisation unit. Is in breach of Policies/ procedures and other actions considered gross misconduct
- (please see Appendix)
- Puts the company's image or reputation at risk

Management approach to discipline is corrective rather than punitive. The disciplinary process is to ensure equity, fairness and to protect the Right of the employee to appeal. HR must be consulted at each level of the disciplinary process. The following shall apply as the guidelines for the disciplinary process:

- Notice of employees requiring formal disciplinary action will be sent to the Human Resources Department, with supporting evidence
- HR will notify the employee in writing of the charges against him/her and advise when the DC Hearing will occur.
- Employees have the right to a fair hearing at the session. A fair hearing does not imply that the employee's justification will be accepted, it implies that the employee will be given an opportunity to speak or defend himself/herself.

DC Composition will differ based on employee grade level as follows:

Employee Level	DC Committee Composition	Frequency
MD	No DC; Board Chairman, Vice President	As required
Executive Management	MD, HR, Vice Presidents	As required
Other Staff Members	Line Manager/Functional Head, HR.	As it occurs

All suspension, dismissal or termination decisions at Disciplinary committees will require the approval in writing of the MD; and the MD's direct reports will in addition, require approval in writing by the Board Chairman.

The following sanctions shall apply in dealing with all disciplinary at MMS.

- Verbal Caution
- Warning Letter
- Final Warning
- Suspension
- Advise to Resign

Child Labour is defined as the employment of a child in business or industry in violation of Nigerian federal statutes prohibiting the employment of children under a specified age. The Nigerian Labour Act 2004, as amended, classifies a child as a “young person” under the age of fifteen years.

Policy Statement

Medbury Medical Services Limited will never use child labour and outline provisions for young workers (a ‘young worker’ is a young person above the minimum legal age requirement and below the age of 18).

Medbury Medical Services shall not entertain Child Workers. Young Workers shall not be employed at any time.

13.0. MODERN SLAVERY, FORCED LABOUR AND HUMAN TRAFFICKING

Principle

Medbury Medical Services adopts zero tolerance to modern slavery, forced labour, human trafficking and all forms of corruption and bribery, directly and indirectly, associated with these 13.1 criminal acts.

Modern slavery

This is a serious and organised crime that destroys communities and causes significant harm to victims. It is the illegal exploitation of people for personal or commercial gain, and involves people being coerced and forced into providing a service to others. It is a crime that affects people of all genders, ages (including children) and ethnicities and is a violation of fundamental human rights.

13.2 Forced Labour

Under the convention on the right of the child

“Article 32” Provides that:

The state recognizes the right of the child to be protected from economic exploitation and from performing any work that is likely to be hazardous or to interfere with the child’s health or physical, mental, spiritual, moral or social development.
